

Romildo Dias Toledo Filho

Full Professor at UFRJ, Civil Engineering. Expert in sustainable materials, cementitious composites, and green technologies. Founder of the Sustainable Materials Center (NUMATS). Former Director of COPPE/UFRJ and current CEO of UFRJ's Science Park. Created the BRICS Innovation Center and chairs the China-Brazil Center for Climate Change and Renewable Energy. Member of the Brazilian Academy of Sciences (ABC), National Academy of Engineering (ANE), and TWAS. Renowned for research in regenerative materials, energy transition, and university-industry integration. Leader in innovation and sustainability with global impact.